

This Apple Pencil is a life saver for teaching remotely because I don't need a white board as much at home and also do making specific comments on homework, as I am trying to show in this selfie.

John will have to get a pic of me teaching (without showing the kids however). Maybe I can set that up and pretend to be teaching later today. Thought I would shoot this out now because I am so late with it, and I am sorry.

Hope you have a wonderful Thanksgiving!
